Riepilogo

My passion lies in guiding organizations through complex human capital challenges. My core purpose at work is people development; I truly love helping individuals evolve their capabilities and improve their interpersonal relationships. I not only provide strategic consulting but also actively conduct corporate training, developing talent and skills. My background in Political Sciences and HR from UNIMI has equipped me with a unique perspective and I'm always eager to apply methodical thinking and proactive solutions to deliver tangible results. As a dedicated AI enthusiast, I'm constantly exploring how artificial intelligence can shape the future of work and beyond, integrating these insights into my professional approach.

Beyond my professional role, I'm an avid reader, passionate traveler and sports enthusiast. I also have a deep passion for geopolitics and history, finding immense value in understanding the intricate forces that shape our world. I firmly believe in embracing new experiences, tackling challenges head-on, and growing from every lesson learned. I'm a confident, motivated, methodical, and proactive team player, always ready for what's next!

CoE Human Capital. We like to call ourselves Value Hunters: we are technologists, transformers, economists, psychologists, coaches, experts in innovation and change. We believe in value and look for it in people, organizations and technology. Through transformation processes, we want to guide people towards a sustainable and less complex future. This is innovation for us.
